

Free Rural Preparedness Workshops

9 and 10 March 2027 | Stratford

How prepared is your farm or rural community for an emergency?

TCC is hosting two practical workshops in Stratford to help farmers and rural professionals strengthen their emergency preparedness.

The sessions cover two important parts of rural resilience: having a plan in place for your farm, and understanding how catchment groups can support their communities when an emergency occurs.

Choose the workshop that best suits your role.

For farmers

On-farm Emergency Preparedness

Tuesday 9 March 2027 | 10am to 2pm

Emergencies can disrupt farm operations and put people, livestock and property at risk. Having a plan in place can help you respond more effectively when the unexpected happens.

This workshop will focus on on-farm preparedness and developing a farm emergency plan. We'll use TCC's Your Farm Emergency Plan resource to help you prepare for an emergency.

For catchment group coordinators and rural professionals

Catchment Groups and Emergency Response

Wednesday 10 March 2027 | 10am to 12.30pm

Catchment groups can play an important role in supporting their communities during and after an emergency.

This workshop will explore how catchment groups can help connect local people, support communication and contribute to a coordinated community response. We'll also look at how groups can work alongside the organisations involved in emergency management.

Register your interest

Both workshops will be held at:
War Memorial Centre, 55 Miranda Street, Stratford.

To register, email nicola@taranakicc.nz and let us know which workshop you would like to attend. Please RSVP by 2 March.

For more information, visit: taranakicc.nz/emergency